Music News

Jeffrey Johnson, director of UB's music program, has announced that music students will have the opportunity to engage with five of the world's most talented young conductors over the next year. The five are finalists in the search for a new conductor for the Greater Bridgeport Symphony, whose longtime music director, Gustav Meier, retired last year. The conductors will visit a music history class at UB and discuss the repertoire for their upcoming GBS appearances.

Constantine Kitsopoulos, currently music director of the Queens Symphony Orchestra, met with the class on September 26, shortly before his concert at the Klein Auditorium.

On October 24, conductor Jonathan Govias will visit UB, followed by Eric Jacobsen (December 12), Lawrence Loh (March 13, 2014), and Jacomo Bairos (April 10, 2014). More about the conductors and their visits may be found under "News" on the UB home page. For more information about UB's Bachelor of Music program, visit <http://www.bridgeport.edu/academics/undergraduate/music-bm/>.

CISSE Call for Papers

CISSE 2013, the Joint Conferences on Computer, Information, Systems Sciences & Engineering, is accepting papers through November 1, 2013, for its 9th e-conference, to take place December 12-14. For details, visit the conference website, <http://www.cisseconference.org>.

BUSINESS

Russ Meade, who teaches business law and labor law to UB students from his home in North Carolina using the latest Web 2.0 technology, says, "It's pure heaven. I have the best job in the world." Prof. Meade teaches exclusively for UB but takes his students with him wherever he goes, videoconferencing with them from over 52 nations (so far). He does his best to avoid the dullness often seen in online classes and uses technology that allows a lot of contact with his students. "I have a passion for teaching and ensuring my University of Bridgeport students succeed," he says.

Associate Professor Robert Todd holds a voluntary, everybody's-welcome Excel lab, from 1-5 p.m. every Friday in Mandeville 303. Anyone who needs help with Excel for any course or any reason is invited to stop by. This year, Prof. Todd is joined by Prof. Tim Dorr and ably assisted by Yun Cai. While students get first dibs on their time, everyone is welcome.

SASD

Gary Munch, senior lecturer in design, delivered a keynote presentation at the IV Encontro de Tipografia, organized by the Instituto Politécnico de Castelo Branco/Escola Superior de Artes Aplicadas, September 26-29 in Idanha-a-Nova and Idanha-a-Velha, Portugal. Professor Munch, an award-winning designer of typefaces, spoke about designing typefaces for various languages and scripts and offered notes on the pitfalls and heights of the design process.
